

For a very long time now I've had this vision of the ultimate one-patch quilt. Teeny, tiny squares. Only one inch each. Can you imagine row upon row of lovely little scraps put into a quilt? I am cutting my scraps into 2 1/2" squares for quilts, yes, quilts of single, tiny squares. My checkerboard block is a mini version of this using finished 1" squares. I may have fainted a bit to think that yes, this could be an amazing full size quilt. What to do you think?
